MARTIN

Talk to me. (Pause) I deserve to know what's wrong.

SUSAN

Do you remember Bobby West?

MARTIN

You went out with him.

SUSAN

A little more than that. We were engaged.

MARTIN

You never told me.

I got up one night and he had left his computer on. With his email open.

MARTIN

You read it?

SUSAN

Wouldn't you read an email with the subject: "Hello, Beautiful"? And old girlfriend was flying in and wanted to get together.

MARTIN

He said "yes"?

SUSAN

I don't know. He sent his phone number. When I saw that I was furious and he was furious I read his mail. I threw him out and wouldn't see him again.

MARTIN

Wait. But you didn't know for sure if he was going to meet her.

SUSAN

It didn't matter. I knew I couldn't trust him. You can't stay with somebody you can't trust. You know me. I've had a hard time trusting after that.

MARTIN

Okay. But why are you about him?

SUSAN

I'm not. I'm talking about you. You should have told me.

'Told you'?

MARTIN

Tell me now.

SUSAN

What do you want me to say?

MARTIN

(SUSAN gets up to leave)

Nothing, now. The damage is done.

SUSAN

I've never slept with Becca! Is that what you think?

MARTIN

I think you should pack. Now.
